

CSIR-NIScPR Faculty Lecture Series

After the inauguration of a new institute “CSIR-National Institute of Science Communication and Policy Research (NIScPR)” by merger of two premier institutes CSIR-NISTADS and CSIR-NISCAIR, the Faculty Lecture Series by the Scientific Faculty of both the institutes was the first event which was started during the lockdown period. The primary objective of the series was to know and understand the work and research interests of the scientist faculty in the respective institutes which can enable better integration in work for future. Besides the academic pursuit, it was expected to create better opportunities and understand each other’s strength and complementarities.

The event is being organised on topics of research activities/ research interests of scientists in which they have been pursuing and had developed recommendable expertise over the years. The duration of lecture is generally about 40 minutes presentation about their research work followed by discussion for 20 minutes.

The series was inaugurated with first lecture from Director, CSIR-NIScPR, Prof. Ranjana Aggarwal on “Understanding Human Emotions: Key to Wellness in Pandemic Era” on 24th May 2021.
